Introduction of Binance

Binance is the largest cryptocurrency exchange in the world. It was released in 2017. Binance was founded by Changpeng Zhao, a developer of high-frequency trading software. Binance has been registered in the Cayman Islands. It belongs to China. But then they moved their headquarters from China due to the Chinese government's cryptocurrency rules.

The Binance chain was started in April 2019. The prime aim of Binance is to provide faster, decentralized trading experiences all around the world. Binance DEX is one of the biggest decentralized applications. It is one of the friendliest exchanges out there as well. Users can use it with the help of web interfaces at the official website or use it by the native integration platforms- Trust wallet.

Binance Exchange faces the money laundering probe of the US Govt.

Binance holdings are under the supervision of Justice Authorities of the U.S. This is because Binance has scored to be the world's biggest cryptocurrency exchange in the U.S. Binance executive "Jessica Jung " said in a statement that we take the legal allegations seriously and work with authorities and law enforcement. She also said that we work so hard to create a robust working program and tools to find suspicious activities.

U.S. Govt. Concern

The U.S. Govt. concerned that cryptocurrencies are used to do illegal activities. It is mostly used for drug deals, theft, and to follow the tax-evading policies. But, Zhao said that Binance follows the U.S. rules to use advanced technology for transactions. Last year, the firm warned the U.S. residents, their accounts are banned. If anyone is found to be trading, the account will be reported.
